Ever been shouted at by a boss?

Erina Najjingo
Editor

Yelling in the workplace is unprofessional, regardless of who you are or what position you hold. Recently a speaker at one of the meetings I attended asked us to share our experiences of how each of us would react if shouted at by our superiors.

It turned out that majority of the members in attendance were victims. Then a couple of questions lingered on my mind: what would happen if I fell victim, I wondered! Would I respond immediately, Would I just ignore it and pretend it never happened? Would I pack up my bags and go home? Would I end my career?

Being yelled at makes you dread starting another business day knowing you are going to be working with someone whose emotional intelligence is in check. Yelling demotivates, expresses lack of respect, poor interpersonal skills and creates distress.

Never, under any circumstances, shout back at your superior. Simply apologies. Whilst in the meeting, one of the members shared their experiences how once their boss shouted at them. She remained calm and mostly composed. This is golden, because silence is golden. You can not just shout back, when you stay calm, it does not get personal, you repel the stress and disagreement which would have been the case if you yell back.

Do not give your angry boss a reason to be more angry. Whereas a good turn deserves another, a bad turn does not deserve another, but rather a good one. A gentle answer turns away wrath, but a harsh word stirs up anger.
On April 6, 2017, the School Secretary’s Office organized a three day retreat at Ci-sand Hotel in Jinja for the 5th Council members. The retreat intended to enable the new Council members to appreciate where the School was; where it wants to go; and how to get there. It was facilitated by the Former Governor, Bank of Uganda and Corporate Governance guru, Mr. Leo Kibirango.

Prof Venansius Baryamureeba bounced back as Chairman MUBS 5th Council. He provided leadership to the 4th Council whose team of office expired at end of September 2016. The 5th MUBS Council was reconstituted bringing new faces on board.

The retreat addressed several topics; key among these included; Corporate Governance, Leadership challenges of Boards/Councils and Principles of Strategic Planning.

The retreat is part of the School’s Strategy for capacity building for its members and this retreat paved way for the new MUBS Strategic Plan 2017/2020.

Mr. Kibirango one of the country’s leading experts in corporate governance, challenged the new Council about the need for corporate governance worldwide. He noted the trends in corporate governance and mentioned some of the leading corporate governance practices.

As Chairman of the outgoing Council, Prof. Barya as he is fondly referred to by the MUBS community was pleased to report that through working closely with Government, School Management and other stakeholders, MUBS was now firmly established as a premier institution of higher learning in Business and Management Education in the country and beyond.

He noted that MUBS has built a reputation not only for its leadership and commitment in creating critical thinkers who have shaped the national agenda for Higher Education in the country, but also its focus on producing high caliber graduates.
Government should Take over the entire MUBS wage bill

The Chairperson of the Finance, Planning and General Purpose Committee of the outgoing MUBS Council asked the new Council to lobby Government to fully take over the entire wage bill of the institution.

Dr. Tom O. Okurut said this will relieve the internally generated funds to cater for critical research and infrastructure projects at the School. In his report he further recommended that the 5th Council lobbies Government to increase MUBS funding. This would help bridge the staffing gap, improve staff welfare and also put in place the required infrastructure to support the academic life of the students.

He also advised the new Council to lobby Government to re-instate the requirement of 10% which the School lost in the Academic Year 2014/2015 when Governmental suspended the mentioned incriminate as it did for Makerere University.

Election of Deans and Heads of Departments

In accordance with the Universities and Other Tertiary Institutions Act, the outgoing Council registered the election of Academic leaders at the positions of Dean of Faculty and Heads of Department as a major achievement.

CEMAS Implementation

Students’ admission, registration and fees allocation process have greatly improved with the implementation of the Computerised Education Management and Accounting Systems (CEMAS).

Academic programmes

Academic programmes were reviewed in a bid to respond to market needs and emphasis was put on vocationalisation of MUBS programmes in line with Government policy. Furthermore, on recommendation of the Academic Board, Council approved the new programmes.

Students’ Welfare

A number of students’ scholarship schemes in the last four (4) years were introduced. These include; the MUBS first class sponsorship scheme and the MUBS-FAWE scholarships. The Forum for African Women Education (FAWE) scholarships aimed at supporting the girl-child education.

School Policies

The following policies were reviewed, approved and operationalised and these include; the Staff Development Policy, communications and Corporate Social Responsibility policies, the students’ welfare and Disciplinary Handbook, the students’ Guild Constitution and the students’ death response policy.

Meritorious Awards

The Deputy Principal Assoc. Prof. Moses Muhwezi and the Head Of Department Assoc. Prof. Stephen Nkundabanyanga were among the individuals recognized under the MUBS Meritorious Awards for their outstanding contribution to the School. The Awards Scheme was established to recognize and reward excellence across the entire spectrum of MUBS establishment and operations.
Annually the Department of Leisure and Hospitality in the Faculty of Marketing and International Business organizes the Hospitality week where the Leisure and Hospitality students showcase what they learn in class as part of their coursework examinations. The Hospitality week aims at forging a way forward on how MUBS can contribute towards developing the country into a middle-class economy.

The hospitality week also equips students with hands-on skills in the arts and showbiz. Through such events, employers sometimes spot the best students and offer them jobs. This is a practical event with activities such as filming, catering and showbiz.

This year’s theme was “Hospitality for graduates’ readiness for Vision 2040.” The highly anticipated 8th Makerere University Business School (MUBS) hospitality week held on Friday 21st April is a platform for students to turn theory into practice.

This year’s Hospitality week was packaged with pre-event activities which included: a charity walk in the village of Bubirabi in Mbale district, distribution of food items and sanitary pads to school-going children in the same district, a football match between Uganda Premier League side Onduparaka Football Club and MUBS.

Attended by students, members of Management and a few selected entertainers, the 2017 Hospitality day did not only serve to entertain but inspire as well.

Renowned Actor Mr. Sam Bagenda commonly known as Dr. Bbosa and Pastor Komese were among the guest speakers. Their inspirational speeches and real-life experiences made it easy for one to concentrate reflect on their goals.

Balaam Barugahara, Uganda’s Events and Promotions guru, scooped the best Events Promotion Company Award, while B2C walked home with the best Upcoming Artists Award, NBS’ after 5 program won the best Entertainment TV show, while the Queen of Katwe scooped the best National Filming Award.

In return, Balaam offered a bull to the Leisure and Hospitality class.

Minister challenges students to be innovative

The Minister for ICT and National Guidance Hon. Frank Tumwebaze recently challenged MUBS students to be innovative and take on a leading role in offering solutions to Uganda’s challenges which include unemployment and health among others.

He noted that in this era of technological advancement, Government is looking at higher institutions of learning as the drivers of innovation who will accelerate Uganda from a low income country to a middle income status.
MUBS’ Prof. Waswa Balunywa was recently elected the Chairman Editorial Board of the Commonwealth Association of Technical and Polytechnic in Africa (CAPA). CAPA was recently renamed, “Commonwealth Association of Technical Universities and Polytechnic in Africa”. This followed the changes that have led to the conversion of Polytechnics into Technical Universities.

His election to the Board, was a confirmation of the role MUBS has played in fostering research and publication among CAPA member Institutions, and the continued need to nurture research within the CAPA fraternity.

Upon his election, Prof. Balunywa promised to improve the quality of the scientific journal, and also to introduce non-academic publications, including a newsletter.

The current MUBS Management found the National College of Business Studies, (NCBS) an active member of CAPA, and took over the mantle. Prof. Balunywa explained that, while MUBS was not strictly a Vocational and Technical institution, it had vocationalized Diploma programmes that made its participation in CAPA relevant.

Other Technical Institutions in Uganda unlike MUBS, do not participate in CAPA activities. MUBS attempted to mobilize them and found out that many did not have funds to participate, and were actually grossly underfunded.
On Tuesday, April 4, 2017, the Faculty of Management and Public Policy held their fourth research seminar at the ABD Building at Nakawa MUBS main campus.

The Dean Dr. Annet Nabatanzi Muyimba briefed the staff about the importance of research in the continued growth and development of the country and also inspired them to begin their research and publication journey. Dr. Nabatanzi emphasized that research and publication was one of the main activities for academicians. She encouraged the staff to publish in recognized refereed journals as this had become a major criterion of academic success in the competitive environment of global higher education.

To support the faculty and individuals in developing research strategies and plans, she said the Faculty had set up a research committee that oversees research projects to ensure that this research is published and the research findings are presented at both national and international conferences.

At the same event, the Head of Department Leadership and Governance Dr. Isaac Kayongo emphasized capable leadership if the Faculty is to be successful in its research agenda. He said capable leadership involves: self management, leading others, task management, innovation and social responsibility.

Dr. Kasekende to Champion Faculty Research

The Head Of Department of Business Education Dr. Francis Kasekende was recently nominated by the teaching staff in the Faculty of Management and Public Policy to coordinate their research activities.

He was nominated during the Faculty’s 4th Research seminar held on April, 4 2017 at the MUBS main campus Nakawa.

The Dean, Dr. Annet Nabatanzi K. Muyimba pointed out that this Academic year 2017/2018, the Faculty was focusing more on research and publications. She emphasized that Research is not only critical to the economic and social development of society; but was also critical to the mission of the School. It is also critical for promotions of academic staff to senior positions.

A total of 210 students were recognized by the Faculty of Management and Public Policy for excellent performance. Every year the Faculty organizes the Excellence Award Ceremony to recognize best performing students and also to motivate non performers to improve. “Interacting with excellent students is not something that comes every day, so it is my pleasure to be here this evening”, said the Deputy Principal Assoc. Prof. Moses Muhwezi while addressing the students. He applauded them for their hard work and encouraged them to keep focused in all aspects of life. He challenged the students to be first class everywhere they go. “Life expects you to be first class and the world will judge you by that”, he said.

Students Recognized for Best performance
Faculty of Management and Public Policy staff gathered on April 11, 2017 for their Annual Faculty & Staff Awards Dinner at the Sliver Springs Hotel in Bugolobi to celebrate individual successes, group achievements and outstanding contributions to the Faculty and the School.

The event included a presentation of the Faculty’s Core Values and recognizing staff who had obtained PhDs. The Dean, Dr. Annet K. Nabatanzi Muyimba welcomed the staff and recognized those who had obtained PhDs and these included: the Dean, Dr. Nabatanzi, The Head Of Human Resource Department, Dr. Jolly Byarugaba, Dr. Jannat Kyogabirwe Senior Lecturer in the Department of Human Resource and Dr. Francis Kasekende, Head Of Department of Business Education.

“The PhDs we are celebrating today took years of effort, and undoubtedly the mastery of many skills, but what sets our achievements apart from the ordinary is that these people we are celebrating today also took courage to pursue the PhD.

“This celebration is as a result of our achievement in the last five years. We celebrate the spirit of togetherness and team work”, she said.

The school has been able to train staff in the Faculty to the Master’s and PhD levels. So far the Faculty has eight (8) members of staff with PhDs. Dr. Nabatanzi noted that in the next five years, the Faculty will be graduating more PhDs.

She thanked the Deputy Principal Assoc. Prof. Moses Muhwezi for attending the Faculty functions whenever he is invited and for inspiration them.

Prof. Muhwezi, appreciated the Faculty for contributing towards the MUBS Brand and encouraged them to work more exceptionally and smart this academic year. “In my evaluation the Faculty has done well in the areas of teaching, examining, marking and research. I encourage you to keep your stamina and never give up,” he said.

The Banyoro / Batooro fraternity emerged the best and overall winners of the annual MUBS Regional Campus - Mbarara Student’s Cultural gala that was concluded on Wednesday April 20, 2017. These granddaughters & sons of Omukama Kabalega dominated the other three groups including the most favoured Banyankole / Bakiga, the Luo and the Baganda. The Banyoro/Batooro’s physical and skilled performance demonstratively reflected the vibrancy and variety of the Banyoro / batooro rich Culture.

The Kabalega young men & women conquered nearly all the activities of the day which included; the background of different cultures, the traditional folk songs, the traditional dance and the skit. The event that was blessed with the down pour, a sign of blessing according to Batooro culture, kicked off at 11:00 am for expansion, high competition, high cost of stock, customers lack money and untrustworthy employees. On the challenges regarding access to finance, most of them cited concerns as lack of collateral, low sales volumes to pay back loans, banks did not want them because they were small borrowers and no guarantors.

The students had a wonderful time led by Mr. Diaz Kadugara, Mr. Fred Mulondo and I. Hearing from the ‘horse’s’ mouth was much appreciated as it motivated many to try out their own. Many were encouraged that they can actually start small and grow if they were determined and resources were available as illustrated by the following excerpts:

“It made me appreciate what goes on in the business environments, like the markets, shops, stalls etc.”

“I learnt a lot, actually confirming what we learn in class…..we should have more of these trips even for other courses.”

“It helped me understand how to start my own business in the future.”

“The butcher man’s experience taught me something about business skills……”

One of the best findings was from the interaction with the longest serving butcher man. He indicated that after the deductions of all overhead costs, the take home monthly is between six hundred thousand shillings (600,000) to eight hundred thousand shillings only (800,000). Honestly, how would you have known this fact except through interviewing them.

It is not possible to bring in the business men and women to share their experiences in class due to many factors which include their busy schedule, so the best way is to take the students to them. I believe, through this direct interface with the business men/women, students can understand and appreciate entrepreneurship in its real sense.

Mbarara Campus participated in Ankole Cultural Festival

The festival was intended to showcase the role of cultural and indigenous knowledge in inspiring innovations for economic and social development. This cultural festival attracted many individuals, organization & institution including MUBS whose degree of innovations have been inspired by tradition, culture and other economic activities to improve the welfare of Ugandans and to create employment. MUBS-Mbarara Campus participated primarily as one of the leading players in the development of knowledge – based innovations and other fields of entrepreneurial research in south western region.

President Museveni, in his speech read by Hon. Prof. Ephraim Kamuntu, the Minister of Tourism, Wild Life & Antiquities said that the viable route to Sustainable Economic Development is through promotion of cultural values, inspiring scholars, and attract investors and the youth to explore more in search of ideas, innovations and opportunities to develop the country.

Hon. Min. Kamuntu who represented His Excellency in his words, vividly affirmed that he was still part of MUBS as a staff. Prof. Kamuntu was a Lecturer at the then Faculty of Commerce that later merged with the NCBS to form MUBS. The Minister further said a person who can identify him/herself with a culture will have a sense of responsibility and the desire for self-preservation. Mr. Kadugara explained to the Hon. Minister that other than teaching & research, MUBS had ably achieved in enabling the future of countless people in this country and beyond, demonstrated that indigenous knowledge is a significant component of a country’s intellectual, social, cultural and economic development.

MUBS Regional Campus Mbarara, participated in the first ever Ankole Cultural Festival that was held at Igongo Cultural Centre, located in Biharwe, an adjacent town of Mbarara City on April 15, 2017. The festival was intended to showcase the role of cultural and indigenous knowledge in inspiring innovations for economic and social development. This cultural festival attracted many individuals, with various exhibitions from every culture and students were seen shouting and singing songs of joy and celebrations, for example “Kabalega .... Leega’ Kabalega ..... leega” meaning “oba” what!!!!! as they were crowning and announcing various winners (outstanding performers) in each category.

The key star performers included: The overall Female & Male actors as; Kyokunda Isabella & Mpirwe Edgar respectively; whereas other star actors in each category were:

i) Namugga Esther - Folk song,
ii) Akello Rebecca - Traditional Dance
iii) Kisembo Christopher - Background
iv) Atwijuka Conelious - The Skit.

The favourite cultural group, the Banayankole / Bakiga came in the second position followed by the Baganda and then finally the Luo Cultural group.

Banyoro/Batooro students jubilated with a goat after winning cultural gala.

In the attendance was the Regional Campus Director, Mr. Pontius Byarugaba, Deputy Director Mr. Richard Akisimire, Lecturers and Administrative staff. Mr. Byarugaba thanked the students’ Guild Leadership for organizing such an event and congratulated the Banyoro/Batooro students community for the superb performance. The Director said that the major purpose for such events was to give students an opportunity to discover and grow in their respective cultures. It is very important for us to recognize and appreciate one another’s culture”. I am not from Bunyoro or Tooro but I almost joined these vigorous dancers on stage because I appreciated the love they put into their culture,” Pontius said.
On April 5, 2017, Makerere University Business School launched a program that seeks to enhance innovative ideas in entrepreneurship intended to make a positive impact on society. The Business Plan Competition, an annual challenge will see students compete to pitch unique business startups.

Speaking to about 200 students who participated in the orientation seminar held at the MUBS Nakawa campus Prof. Waswa Balunywa encouraged them to embrace entrepreneurship saying it is the solution to Uganda’s unemployment and poverty. “The possibilities in innovation are tremendous but it takes someone with a creative mind, to add value to the ideas we see today,” Prof. Balunywa said.

“Ugandan lacks entrepreneurs especially among the youth. Through this competition, we want to tap into the minds of young people to come up with unique ideas,” he added. He challenged students to leverage on technology to transform the already existing products. “Today, a good business must have some linkage to technology in order to ease production. What we need is to be producing massively like it is done in developed countries, not relying on physical power,” he said.

MasterCard and Makerere University Business School are partnering to facilitate the Business startups. Through Mastercard’s Innovation Express the participating students will be helped to formulate business models, analyze market challenges as well as the prototype user experience.

“We are looking for ideas that are viable and will make an impact to the ecosystem. Winners will be determined based on business impact, technology accomplishment and creativity,” said Yvonne Njeri, the Leader for Outreach and Marketing at the MasterCard Nairobi Lab. During the seminar, students exchanged ideas ranging from agribusiness, real estate, craft work, services among others.

Teachers are key in developing students’ career:

Prof. Ngoma

“Teachers play a critical role in the career development of students. “We influence their values, attitudes and career choices. We work collaboratively with parents, community members and employers to prepare them for the multiple roles that they will have throughout their lives,” said Prof. Mohmmad Ngoma, the Dean Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research, while addressing students during the Annual MUBS Career and Job Fare. Prof. Ngoma noted that students spend most of their time with the teachers as compared to their parents. Therefore, there was a big need for the teachers to assist students with decision-making and other skills necessary to plan and select from the array of options available to them. Teachers must also help remove the barriers that shorten the life chances of students and develop a culture of high expectations for learning and achievement.

“Teachers are in good position to relate what they teach to the world of work and occupational choices. In this regard, every teacher could be described as a career educator. In the first year at University, teachers should assist the students to focus on career awareness and exploration of career choice. In the third year, teachers should be to relate the content of the curriculum to occupations, it helps students see the relationship between learning and earning.

However, most of the teachers do not mind about this important role. This is because majority teachers teach students to excel academically by looking at the number of A(s) or distinctions students are score rather than focusing on the professionalism and career development.

“As teachers we need to identify and support students’ abilities, strength, personalities and attitude instead of forcing students to do what they do not want to do because they will not like or enjoy it because their minds will be elsewhere.

MUBS to strength Research and Publication

Makerere University Business School (MUBS) is presssing to strengthen and boost research knowledge on Business and Economics among students through seminars and workshops. The first of the seminars, which involved students pursuing Masters of Science in Accounting and Finance, was held on Thursday April 28 at MUBS Annex – Bugolobi.

Dr. Banzini Natamba, one of the lecturers championing the drive, said with continuous seminars and workshops, students can learn immensely, especially when they receive guidance from experienced public servants, economists, tutors and entrepreneurs. Under the theme “Strategy and Public Sector Management,” the seminar was honoured by Maj. Gen. Fred Mugisha, Maj. Alex Asasira, a military assistant to Mugisha and Prof. Authur Sserwanga, the Vice Chancellor of Muteesa I Royal University and former Dean Faculty of Commerce- MUBS.

The seminars came amidst Uganda’s grappling economy, which has seen several of major businesses close in the country. Prof. Sserwanga, who presented a topic on “Development in Public Sector Accounting Practices”, focused on the hindrances of economic success in developing countries. He noted inadequacy in public sector accounting and financial management in the developing world, emphasizing the deficiency in the accounting system as potential weakness in management.

He noted the need for proper accounting data and interpretation if we are to make sound economic and proper management decisions. He also mentioned the laxity in the management structures as the leading cause of financial inadequacies in developing countries. “Very often poor countries are poor in financial management, which makes decision making unrealistic and inconsistent.”

To overcome the above hindrances, he suggested equipping workers in the accounting and financial sector with soft skills, while embracing lifelong learning and increasing demand for fiscal transparency.

MUBS Staff raises HIV awareness through making artifacts of ARV pill

Ms. Barbra Kemigisa, a young entrepreneur, is educating communities about HIV/AIDS in a unique way. She makes furniture and other household items out of empty anti-retroviral pill bottles. Ms. Kemigisa hopes her crafts will help tackle HIV stigma and encourage people to protect themselves from the virus.

She emphasizes that stigma amongst people with HIV & AIDS is one of the biggest hindrances to treatment amongst people living with the virus.

Kemigisa, a young mother living with HIV, has come up with an effective method of reaching out to people living with HIV and the general public.

Kemigisa who is also an employee of Makerere University Business school Nakawa Campus, has been doing awareness and advocacy work for seven years. She has adopted novelty to carry out her work by making artifacts and common pieces of household furniture from ARV pill bottles.

Her handiwork is not only practical but it also aims to raise HIV awareness through the messages that are inscribed all over the finished pieces of art.

For example, some of her rubbish bins that are placed at different places first attract attention because of their unique look but soon people also realize that there is a deeper message written on the bins. She says she is open about her HIV status because she wants to live a free life and the her art also gives her a sense of purpose.

Kemigisa says this initiative, once improved, will help improve communication between people living with HIV and AIDS. She intends to spread a message of adherence to treatment which improves the health of HIV positive persons.

"I have thousands of reasons to celebrate these pills and more because of their unique look but soon people also realize that their is a deeper message written on the bins. She says she is open about her HIV status because she wants to live a free life and the her art also gives her a sense of purpose."

The benefits of yoga by Prof. Balunywa

If you ever read a book called “The Monk who sold his Ferrari” you will have an introduction to what yoga is. Yoga is an ancient Indian practice that is used for maintaining one’s health.

When you have exposure to western education, you tend to reject practices that are not western. Yoga was sold as a religion in many African countries and knowing the struggle between religions especially in Africa, Yoga was always discredited.

Hinduism is the most dominant religious practice in India and yoga was seen as a Hindu practice. Yoga involves three major aspects, breathing, exercises and meditation. Breathing in properly gives you more oxygen in your body and takes away stress from you. Exercises, called asanas, range from simple to extremely complicated poses and movements of the body.

"I have taught yoga to a few people, unfortunately, I have never gotten a following. Yoga continues to work for me. It is an excellent way to keep healthy. It doesn't allow strenuous exercises and when you feel pain, you stop. Whenever there is an opportunity, the Prof. Waswa Balunywa takes the staff through simple aspects of yoga and the head stand always amazes them."
